Welcome to one of the interior redesign industry's best training resources for the creative adult learner. The Agricola Redesign Training Specialists (ARTS) programs are designed to promote and enhance the interior redesign and home staging industry through quality training for our students.

Diane Agricola is the ARTS programs certified instructor and mentor, and is affiliated with the Decorating & Staging Academy (DSA), American Society of Interior Designers (ASID), Real Estate Staging Association (RESA), the Association of Design Education (ADE), and the Interior Design Society (IDS). Diane has worked in the redesign industry since its infancy, and is an award-winning designer with a successful redesign firm in Cincinnati, OH. Her goal is simple – provide every student with the highest quality training possible to confidently work in the redesign industry. “My greatest satisfaction comes from empowering my students with knowledge and skills in the industry I love.”

All ARTS training programs are held in our 1,600 square foot redesign firm, training center and boutique in Glendale, OH, a historic village located just north of Cincinnati. Our students spend their training class immersed in a working design firm, giving them a real-life experience in the redesign industry.

You have questions – we have the information you need to make an informed training decision. Our 3-Day Class will educate you about interior design basics for the interior hobbyist, our 5-Day Class will prepare you to work as an interior redesigner and home stager and our Color Confidence Class gives you the skills to create the perfect color palettes for your clients.

Don't wait any longer to do what you have always wanted to do...start right now.

► COLOR CONFIDENCE CLASS

THE WORLD OF INTERIOR REDESIGN & HOME STAGING IS WAITING FOR YOU

Color forms the background of our world, creates welcoming and comfortable living spaces and affects us on an emotional level. Selecting colors for paint, accents, furniture and upholstery is exciting, adds life and personality to homes and can be the most overwhelming set of decisions you will make as an interior redesigner. Successful color consultations can be a lucrative addition to your menu of services, allowing you to build a stronger bond with your clients, and take your interior redesigns to the next level. The ARTS Color Confidence Class will provide you with the tools and knowledge you need to confidently select color for your client or your own spaces.

The ARTS Color Confidence Class is based on a proven, client-focused method of selecting colors. This method will allow you to confidently choose colors for paint, accents and furniture that will coordinate with existing furnishings and accessories to create a well-balanced, interesting palette. This is called “knitting the rooms together with color” and is at the heart of this philosophy of color.

Choosing colors for a client forms a bond of trust that will allow you to successfully offer other design services. Many clients find the process of selecting colors extremely trying. Oprah Winfrey has said that she would rather knock down a wall than choose a paint color!

With many years of experience selecting color palettes for her clients, Diane Agricola has perfected a custom client-focused color selection process. Through the ARTS Color Confidence Class, she shares this process with you, giving you the tools and knowledge you need to work with color. Diane emphasizes the importance of becoming familiar with your professional paint box and paint samples. She shares her color experience with you – which colors are great backgrounds, wonderful accents and interesting chameleons. She offers a palette of go-to colors that remove the fear and provide a starting point for creating a custom palette that will work for every home.
